OBJECTIVE

I would like to join a dynamic and forward-thinking team where I can apply my web development skills and continue my professional growth. I am looking for a job in a company that values innovation, offers career development opportunities and supports continuous learning.

Although I am studying Business Management and International Relations, I have a successful background in Information Technology, with a particular focus on web development. My completed web projects demonstrate my ability to self-learn and effectively apply coding skills to real-world applications.

I participated in a conference in Brussels, where I proudly received an award on behalf of our team for the project 'EU4Youth - Unlocking the Potential of Young Social Entrepreneurs in Moldova and Ukraine', which highlights my ability to interact with international stakeholders and work well in a team.

As a self-motivated individual who is driven to achieve results, I am ready to share my organisational knowledge and practical web development experience with your company to bring projects to a successful conclusion and achieve your strategic goals.
